

Japan is open for tourists

Japan is finally set to welcome individual tourists from October 11, more than two years after Covid-19. Which is good news for all travelers to Japan. The administration of that country has issued some rules for this. For example, proof of covid 19 vaccination or related negative results must be shown 3 days prior to travel to Japan. Japan National Tourism Organization President Mr. Satoshi Seino said that Japan is ready to welcome individual and group tourists who are looking forward to visiting Japan by relaxing all restrictions. Arrival tests are waived for travelers from developed countries such as the US, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the UK, and most of the European Union, even proof of a covid vaccine will not be required.
