

Puri's Jagannath Temple is now in Bengal: CM, West Bengal

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee gave good news for the devotees of Jagannath. This time Sri Jagannath temple is being built in Digha in the style of the Puri temple. The Chief Minister announced this in mid-December. The construction of the temple has already started after purchasing the land of the proposed temple at a cost of about 8 crores. She also mentioned that another 128 crores have been sanctioned. Tourists and devotees are going to get the benefit of visiting Jagannath Temple in Digha very soon.